> SUPREME COURT-CHAMBERS. Another Erie Lawsuit.

John Joyce vs. The Eric Railway Company and Robert Heath. This case was to have been argued esterday on a motion to dissolve an injunction ndants. This injunction was ob egainst the defendants. This injunction was obin the names of Raphael & Heath, on the ground that is was to be used to obtain the control of the company's affairs. Judge Fithian, counsel for the plaintin, asked three days' postponement, that he may have time to study his points. Win. M. Evarts, for defendants, argued against a postponement. The Court said he would hear the arguments to-day, at twelve o'clock.

An Adjournment. Before Judge Barnard.

The cases of some half dozen repeaters were to have been tried to-day, but after the jury were called Judge Barnard adjourned the court until Monday next.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS. A Mechanic's Lien.

Betore Judge Loew. Robert Boulton vs. Isaac Herman, John Barry. The plaintiff in this case is a sub-contractor, and the defendants Herman is owner of property in East Fifteenth street, and Barry the contractor who built it. The plaintiff had a lien on the property and brought suit to recover it. The case was given to a brought suit to recover it. The case was given to a referee, who found for defendant Barry, subject to the lien of plainuit. The lien was first flied in the County Clerk's office on April 14, 1869. On the eth of April, 1870, a judge of this court granted an order for the hen, and when that was brought to the County Clerk's office to be flied and entered it was discovered that a mistake had been made in the eriginal entry. It was then taken away to be corrected, but has never been returned. A motion was made for a stay of proceedings on the judgment, and to set aside the referee's report. Judgo Loew decaded that the referee should not have found for the defendant Barry, and granted the motion.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

At the opening of the court yesterday John 1 O'Donneil, a well known liquor dealer, who was convicted of stealing a valuable gold watch from a Philadelphia gentleman, was placed at the bar for sentence. Since the trial the watch was restored and the Recorder said, in view of the fact that some tence to imprisonment in the State Prison for two tence to imprisonment in the State Prison for two years and six months. Conviction of two accomplished burglars, who are sent to the session yesterday was spent in the trial of branchs Redmond and George Whitney, who were charged with burglariously entering the dry goods stere of Guiterman Brothers, 83 Leonard street, on the 16th of September last and stealing theorism over three thousand dollars' worth of silks. A portion of the stolen property was traced to a room in Market street, hired the day previous by the defendants, who sppeared to be keen, respectable looking fellows. A witness named Hambin positively identified the accused as the men, who left the premises on the alternoon of the burglary with full black bags, which were put into a carriage in waiting on the corner.

The defence set up an alib, which was sworn to by the mother and relatives of the defendants, but the testimony was so unrollable that the jury placed no confidence in it. It came out in the course of the trial that one of the prisoners (whose proper name is McNamara) has a brothar now in Sing Sing Prison, another brother and a sister under arrest upon a charge of burglary, and that his mother is confined in the Tombs at present for attempting to aid his secape.

Recorder Hackett went over the whole of the testiescape.

Recorder flackett went over the whole of the testimony in his usual impartial and clear manner, and after deliberating for a few moments the jury rendered a verdict of guilty. The highest penalty the law allowed was imposed, which was five years' imprisonment in the State Prison. It is said that this conviction will rid New York of two accomplished

AN INCIDENT OF THE RERELLION.

Visit of an Ex-Confederate Regiment to Cape May-An Incident of the Rebellion Conpected with It, and a Suggestion.

On the night of the 21st of this month the Fifth Maryland regiment, General Herbert, will leave Baltimore on a visit to Cape May, via Philadelphia. On their arrival in the latter city they will be met at the depot by the Eighth Pennsylvania regiment, Colonel Gray, and, after partaking of breakfast and marching through the principal streets, they will embark for Cape May, via the Delaware. This visit of the Fifth regiment goes fur ther to show how thoroughly we are reconstructed than anything that ha taken place since the cessation of actual hostilities between the armies of the North and South. This regiment was the pride of Stonewall Jackson's army corps, it was the advance of Johnson's corps, under General Elsey, in his march from the Vailey of Virginia to reinforce Besuregard at the first battle of Mannssas. And here happened a little incident which is worthy of mention. General Herbert, then Major, commanding the Fifth, came across on that memorable day a wounded officer of a New York regiment lying exposed to the heat of a midsammer sun, badly wounded. After giving the wounded officer water and moving him to a shady place the officer handed to Major Herbert the likenesses of his little children and wife, together with some gold that he had about him, with the request, if it were possible for Major Herbert to ever and his wife, to have the goodness to deliver these tokens to her, with his last words on earth, which the Major promised to do. It was two years after this that the battle of Gettysourg, Pa., took place, and among the wounded that fell into our named was Major Herbert. He was taken to the hospital from the field and received every attention for the wife and little ones of the dead officer, the Major jost no time in inquiring for her, and found out that the wife of the officer was one of the volunteer nurses then in one of the hospitals of Gettyaburg. The money and tokens were at once restored to this almost broken hearted lady, who had been withowed by civil war, and Herbert was relieved of his trust, which for two long years had never lett his person.

Could not something be done among us here in New York to get this regiment to extend its trip as far as our civy! I feel sure that all New York would give it giadly welcome, for they now bear at the column's Read our country's figg. They no longer march with elenched muskets and kuit brows against us in battle, but are now the messengers of peace. FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

MONDAY, July 11-6 P. M.

Wall street is still agitated by the news from Eu rope, but THE EXCITEMENT has so far been confined to the Gold Room. The brokers made their appearance there at a very early hour this morning, and as the cable had already furnished advices up to noon to-day concerning affairs at the London Stock Exchange and Paris Bourse the market was affected by news even later than that contained in the morning papers. The first reports giving five-twenties at 86% and rentes down to 66.50 there was a half panic among the gold dealers, and sales took place at 115% a 115% long before the session of the Board formally commenced. Private despatches reported five-twenties as low as 86%. The unreasonable difference between the closing price of gold on Saturday evening and that at the opening this morning invited heavy sales, which led to a decline to 114% soon after the Board opened. It is significant that the sellers at the advanced quotations were the leading foreign bankers. From this point there was a reaction to 114% and a subsequent decline to 113%, the latter being precipitated by the announcement that England had offered her services as mediator between France and Prussia. Later in the day it was rerentes down to 66.50 there was a half panic among France and Prussia. Later in the day it was reported that France had declined the offer of Eng-land's mediation, and gold ran back to 114. Here a telegram from London stated that a much better feeling had taken the place of the early depression at the Royal Exchange, that five-twenties had risen to 88%, and that hopes were entertained of a peaceful settlement of the misunderstanding between France, Prussia and Spain. Hereupon gold declined to 112%, but finally closed at 118%. It was, moreover, explained that the early decline in five-twenties at London was due to the approach of settling day (Medio, July 15), and to the apprehension that a day (Medio, July 15), and to the apprehension that state of war would induce a sharp contraction of loans in the money market. Hence the realization in various securities in anticipation of a stringent money market. The clearances at the Gold Bank reflect the large dealings in gold on Saturday, and it will lead to a very large figure to-morrow. The excitement in the Gold Room was the greatest since the panic of last September. It is a curious feature that the foreign bankers were selling at any figure above 114 and buying from 113 upward. This fact seems to show their belief that while the presen excitement lasts there cannot be a very great decline in gold, and that, on the other hand, should war really be precipitated there will be a demand abroad for American securities which will keep gold from advancing beyond the highest point attained to-day. Wall street, in putting gold to 115% has discounted a war in Europe and it is doubtful if actual hostilities would now do more.
We are inclined to hold to the belief that in the grand disturbance of the finances of the Old World our five twenties will be the most favorite investment in London, Paris, Frankfort, Berlin and Vienna, The capitalists, who dread the uncertainties of a general war, will take care to secure themselves by turning their wealth into securities which, in such a crisis, afford the safest investment. Whatever may become of English consols, French rentes or Prussian funds the American five-twenties are certain to be re-deemed at par, in gold, and meantime pay the holder six per cent annually in coin. The foreign bankers who were selling gold to-day know that in a general upheaval of European finances the bonds of the United States will assert their superiority in the foreign market, and that the first flurry and decline will be followed by a firm market for them. Hence, with no return of our securities from abroad and with the prospect that a war in Europe will eventually bring Europe in debt to us, they combat every unreasonable advance in gold, such as that of this morning. That they were asgacious in selling at 115% is evinced by the later decline of gold to 112%.

The home market for governments was lower but firm, the advance in gold preventing any important decine. With five-twenties at 110 in currency it is not difficult to see that they afford the most desira-ble investment offered at the Stock Exchange. Should gold by any unlooked for contingency advance to the figures of last year it is evident that an obligation bearing interest in gold would have the preference over the miscellaneous securi-ties paying currency interest. It is this feeling which kept the market steady to-day amidst the gen-

STOCKS UNSETTLED.

The stock market opened weak and underwent a rather sharp decline before the board, owing to the impression that war in Europe would send home American stocks as well as lead to activboard prices railed and became strong with the decline of gold, which was interpreted to mean a more pacific situation abroad. The market then became duli, and, the whole interest of the street being centred in gold, the Stock Exchange was but slimly attended. Later in the day it was announced that the conference committee in Congress had agreed upon

THE FUNDING BILL, and prices again declined, especially as money was active after banking hours—the latter being a con-tingency springing out of the disturbance of finances all over the world by the exciting events in Europe, which had been already apprehended by many of the leading houses in the street. The details of the measure as now before Congress for final action were not generally known this afternoon, further than that it provides for the issue of two h undred millions ten year bonds at five per cent, three hundred millions fiteen year bonds at four and a half per cent, and one thousand militons thirty year bonds at four per cent. It served, however, to unsettle prices, and stocks at the close were lower and heavy. The buil cliques have been singularly unfortunate this season, particularly in their latest effort to get up a summer campaign. It will be remembered that in anticipation of a defeat of all financial mea sures in Congress this session they started the movement a few weeks since. Almost at the outset they were checked by the unexpected passage of the Currency bill. Now they are met by the Funding bill. which was also regarded as a dead issue. Lastly the ngitation in Europe, with the prospect of an active and disturbed money market here, does not eucourage the public to venture upon stock speculation. The uncertainties of Wall street operations have never been so strikingly illustrated. It is only a toss of a penny whether in these days one should buy or sell stocks. Two weeks ago the situation, as far as human ken might discern, was wholly favorable to an enthusiastic bull campaign the balance of the summer. How truly Wall street dealers may say "The times change and we change with them." Within that brief two weeks three important matters have occurred to defeat the speculators' plans. The Currency bill the Funding bill and war in Europe have sprung from
